Forces in deal to save £10m

TWO police forces will share support services to save nearly £10 million over the next four years.

The Suffolk and Norfolk Police Authorities have agreed to share costs for 11 functions including their vehicle fleet, buildings and facilities, professional standards and human resources.

But bosses admit the new arrangements will lead to job losses.

There are already links between the two forces which have a joint serious crime investigation team.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A formal merger between the two forces was previously ruled out.

Charlie Hall, Suffolk's assistant chief constable for collaboration, said: "Our priority is to re-design our support functions so that they can support both our individual frontline services and collaborated teams more efficiently, ensuring we can deliver the best possible service to our communities."

"We acknowledge the fact that, while there will be efficiency increases, it is inevitable that some jobs will be lost."

Kittens dumped at roadside

TWO kittens are doing well with a foster carer after they were found abandoned at the roadside.

A third kitten was found dead in a cardboard box which had been used to dump them beside the busy A143 road between Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds.

The two that survived had struggled free and were roaming around the roadside. The surviving kittens, a ginger tabby male and a black female thought to be about seven weeks old, have been taken in by an RSPCA foster carer and are set to be rehomed.

RSPCA Inspector Richard Lythgoe appealed for help in tracing the person who dumped the kittens.

He said: "We have very little information to go on and would welcome any help the public can give us in tracking down the person who left these young animals in such a vulnerable and dangerous position."

The kittens were found in the early morning on Friday, October 22.

Anyone with information should call the RSPCA on 0300 123 4999.

Moving tribute to town's war heroes

People of all ages joined in a moving two-day festival to mark the 90th anniversary of Haverhill's war memorial.

The Haverhill Remembrance Festival commemorated the 144 names of soldiers killed in the First World War who are on the town's war memorial.

Gill Hanbury, daughter of Lt Gen Sir Charles Briggs who unveiled the original memorial, opened the festival in the town's arts centre.

Throughout the weekend the names of those from the town who died in the First World War were read out in batches of six followed by a performance by local schools and other organisations.

Alan Bumpstead, one of the organisers, said: "It went better than we could have imagined. The calling of the six names every half hour was very atmospheric and I have had lots of emails from people saying how moving it was.

"All in all we were pleased and delighted with people's response."

The event was organised by the Suffolk Family History Society (Haverhill Group) and the Haverhill and District Local History Group and donations were collected for the Royal British Legion. The event was supported by the town council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Ex-service organisations as well as many of the town's schools took part in the event with displays.

There were also military re-enactment groups, a display of military vehicles and a visit by the Pearly King and Queen of Peckham.

The names of 42 men and women killed in the Second World War and one killed on active service in Northern Ireland were recorded in the event programme.

A Tribute in Words and Music to the Fallen of World War I was staged at the arts centre on Saturday night.

The event coincided with the launch of a new book, Letters from the Front - Haverhill 1914-19, edited by local historian and author Roy Brazier, and published by the local history group.

Chickens all of a flutter on their birthday

PRIMARY school youngsters celebrated the first birthday of the chickens they watched hatch.

The birds helped share a birthday cake with the children at Coupals School in Haverhill.

The children took part in contests, organised by high level teaching assistant Sandra Linnane who looks after the chickens. They included designing a birthday card, guessing how many eggs the birds have laid and drawing a picture of a chicken.

The chickens – Diara, Chick Pea, Chicken

Licken, Yoda, Dorothea, Henrietta and Jolie – joined in the fun with the 120 pupils.

The birds hatched at the school a year ago as part of a living eggs project and are kept in a run in the school grounds.

Teacher Angie Killingback said: "They all had a great day."

Police in deal to save £10 million

Colin Spence, chairman of Suffolk Police Authority, said: "Members and officers of Suffolk Police Authority have had extensive involvement in the business support review process over the past year.

"It is the role of the police authority to ensure that whilst working to achieve the significant financial savings required of us, the correct balance is achieved between cutting costs and providing an efficient and effective policing service for the people of Suffolk. This has driven our decision and will continue to be our focus in meeting the challenges ahead.

"Having approved the proposals, the police authority will continue to work closely with colleagues in Norfolk and Suffolk whilst the changes are implemented, and will monitor progress to ensure that the re-design of our essential support services does not damage our ability to deliver a high quality policing service."

The two forces are now working on the timing of creating joint units.

More talks on rail link plans

A CAMPAIGN to restore rail links between Cambridge and Haverhill will be boosted with a meeting later this month.

The Cambridge-Sudbury Rail Renewal Association (CSRRA) has previously collected 11,400 signatures on a petition in favour of bringing the railway back.

The association has said there is support from train operators and local people for the restoration of the rail line – which closed in 1967.

Now it is to hold a meeting at Haverhill Arts Centre on Thursday, November 25, starting at 7.30pm to update people on the campaign.

Malcolm Hill, who chairs the association, said: "Whenever we have had a stand in Haverhill High Street we have had support from the majority of people.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"The population of the town has grown from 8,500 before the closure of the railway to 23,400 now."

The association has just written to the minister for transport to press the case for reopening the line and is hoping to get support for Matthew Hancock, whose West Suffolk constituency includes Haverhill.

Mr Hill said the idea had previously been supported by local councillors.

One of the major problems in store was built a year ago on the former station site.

Mr Hill said: "The railway would probably have to go parallel with the by-pass on the south side of the town.

"Because railways are doing so well at the moment and the Government is pressing for more public transport, we are hoping they will start thinking about reopening the line."

Although much of the former railway track in the town could not easily be restored, Mr Hill said other sections of the line remained virtually intact.

A survey by CSRRA, carried out in 2004, showed that more than 70 per cent of those who responded would use the line for commuter journeys to and from Cambridge.

Youth shelter removed after vandalism attack

A YOUTH shelter on Haverhill's Chalkstone estate has been removed.

The shelter, between

Strasbourg Square and Tesco car park, was removed after it was damaged by vandals.

St Edmundsbury

Council said it had been taken down because it had been made unsafe by vandalism.

The shelter, which cost £6,000 to install five years ago, was repainted only two weeks before it was removed.

“An Outstanding College”

Ofsted 2010

In October 2010 Ofsted inspectors visited Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College and judged the College to be “outstanding”.

Many members of the community have worked with us as students, parents, carers, members of staff and governors. Others will be aware of our College through our work with local groups and organisations such as the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce. Parents with children at Castle Hill Middle School and Place Farm Primary School will know us through our partnership work with those two schools – The Castle Partnership.

Our Ofsted report recognises the fantastic achievements of our students and staff. The report talks about “an outstanding College” with a “powerful ethos”, where students make good progress and individuals feel valued and recognised. This powerful learning ethos is created by skilled staff, good teaching and a highly effective curriculum that is underpinned by outstanding behaviour, care, guidance and support.

Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College has been on a journey of transformation since September 2003. We would like to thank members of the local community for their support and for believing that we would become one of the best schools in Suffolk.

Castle Manor is now ranked in the top 10% of schools in the country. We are very proud of this achievement and know that our local community will be too!

As the Castle Partnership develops we look forward to securing outstanding all through learning for children and young people during all stages of their education.

Second show on the cards

A CHRISTMAS show for pensioners has proved so popular that a second one is being staged.

Haverhill Town Council's show Remember When at Christmas on Tuesday, December 14, sold more than 200 tickets in two weeks. Now the town council has announced a second date – Monday, December 13. Mary Argent, box office manager at the town's arts centre, said: "Demand for tickets for this show has been unprecedented. We already have customers for 50 tickets for the second show. This is always a lovely occasion where arts centre staff serve refreshments to the hundreds of senior citizens who support town council events and arts centre shows throughout the year."

The show will feature music from the 1940s to 1970s with songs made famous by Doris Day, Bing Crosby, Vera Lynn, Frank Sinatra, Julia Andrews and many more.

Tickets, price £5 (including festive refreshments), are available from Haverhill Arts Centre box office on (01440) 714140.

Mower stolen from shed

A RIDE-ON lawnmower and sweeper was stolen from a school after thieves forced the locked doors on a shed. The red Westwood machine was stolen together with a silver trailer from the school in Stoke-by-Clare between 3.30pm on Tuesday, October 26, and 8.20am on Wednesday, October 27. A tractor was moved during the incident.

Anyone with information should call Pc Ian Holyland at Bury St Edmunds police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

School to put on show

STUDENTS at Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College will stage Oh What a Lovely War on November 18 and 19.

The show – originally performed in the 1960s when it was also released as a film – is based on the First World War. Tickets, price £4 adults and £2 students, are available from the school office.

Gardeners compete

CLARE and district Horticultural Society stages its autumn show at Clare Town Hall on Saturday. The show, which opens to the public from 2pm, features more than 100 classes for flowers, fruit, vegetables, cookery and home-made wine.

Gifts for retiring nurse

MEDICAL staff gathered to say their goodbyes to a district nurse who has retired after more than 30 years.

Lynda Keppel, who has been based in Haverhill throughout her career, was given retirement presentations at the town's Crown Health Centre.

Mrs Keppel, 61, of Fritton Court, has worked at surgeries in the town as well as Sudbury, Clare and Wickhambrook.

She said: "I was a bit choked at the presentation. The nursing team in Haverhill are in a class of their own. When you walk into the room in the morning you feel like you're in your comfort zone."

"I got so many flowers the house is like a florist's shop."

She also received vouchers, cash and a tea set.

For the past three years she has covered the leg ulcer clinic in the town and Sudbury and will continue to do so two days a week.

A second retirement party was being held in Sudbury today.

Mrs Keppel has lived in Haverhill for 42 years and is originally from Ruislip in West London. She has two children and three grandchildren.

Signmaker offers help in dispute over logos

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A PET store forced to change its logo by Tesco because it was too similar to the supermarket's has won support from a Haverhill signmaker.

Petco agreed to change its signs after Tesco claimed the logo of the store in Sturmer Road, Haverhill, resembled the supermarket giant's famous blue and red logo.

But Petco received some

surprise support from Haverhill-based Xcel Print and Promotions, which has offered to provide three signs with the firm's logo free of charge.

Elliot Martin, who opened the pet supermarket with business partner John Dipple in April, said: "It is a lovely offer and we're very happy to get the new signs."

"It's great to see local businesses helping out and I think lots of people felt Tesco had been a bit hard on us.

"We knew it was a bit cheeky, but Tesco were far enough away for people to know the difference."

"It was a bit close and we cannot afford to take on Tesco – they are just too big. "Anyway, we're very happy with our new signs."

No legal action was threatened by Tesco over the signs, though Mr Martin believes the letter requesting the change of the logo was a "shot across the bows".

Tesco claimed the similarity of the two logos suggested the retailer endorsed Petco as a business, though it had no problems with the business's name.

No-one was available from Xcel Print and Promotions, which is based in Boundary Road, or from Tesco.

Same retail issue applies

Sir, I refer to your report regarding St Edmundsbury Borough Council's decision to block the plan for regeneration of the out-of-town site formerly occupied by Project Office Furniture, based on the possible damage it might do to existing trade in the town centre (Factory retail plan rejected, Weekly News, October 28). However, the same council agreed to retail being included in the plans for the Research Park Development to be built at the opposite end of the town. This smacks of double standards on the part of the council, as surely the same problem must also apply to this site.

If, as reported in your article, the council is concerned about the anti-social behaviour a drive-through restaurant might create, why did it grant permission for the KFC to be built near the cinema?
Further proof of double standards.

B. Asbey
Hanchett End
Haverhill

Time to allow town to grow

Sir, "Factory retail plan rejected" – why?
So, an empty and rather unattractive site making no money for the town is preferable – is it?
Local people being denied jobs – is nothing to worry about – is it?
Having very limited retail choice in the town is the way forward – is it?
The people of the town having a say in how their town develops and goes forward – well forget that it seems!
Were these people not elected by us to act on our behalf to ensure this town attracts new families and provides good retail facilities to the people of the town and surrounding areas.

If, the existing shops and retail outlets are struggling then maybe the council should consider making parking free. This could be offered instead of a large car park adjacent to the cricket club standing empty most of the day! Maybe, they should have helped and supported the shops in the High Street and Queen's Street a bit more over the years.

I'm sure the council tax is crippling to some of the smaller shops. It's time this town was allowed to grow – not be constantly choked to death by people who really don't appear to want this town to succeed.

Glynis Evans
Wratting Road
Haverhill

Please support competition

Sir, Once again we read in the Weekly News of the council officers' decision (on behalf of us all) to keep us paying through the nose for products and services, and keeping our job prospects poor when 260 new posts could be made available, thus lining the pockets of our erstwhile town centre traders by failing to encourage competition.

Haverhill did itself proud

Sir, 'Never mind 'Britain's Got Talent!' Haverhill did itself proud last Friday and Saturday with the Remembrance Festival held at the Arts Centre. What a wealth of talent, skills and ingenuity went into the many varied performances, displays and activities. All these hopefully helped those who attended to think more deeply about the many aspects of war and conflict, with such wide-ranging consequences.

Any show needs an audience and we were very pleased to see so many visitors throughout the two days. It was particularly good to hear that people had met up with friends or relatives from years ago, and even some who discovered new relatives from reading the family stories contained in the Roll of Honour. The Roll of Honour is available to view in the Local History Centre. Also for the month of November, in the Bistro at the Arts Centre, is a display titled 'Haverhill Remembers' including artwork from the festival, by local schoolchildren. Thanks should also go to Alan Bumpstead, the chairman of Suffolk Family History's Haverhill Group, whose vision this was and who has worked tirelessly over the past year to keep the rest of us on target with this very worthy project.

Judith Rye
Vice-Chairman Haverhill Group
Suffolk Family History Society

It is stated that the town centre is "fragile and underperforming". Has anyone seriously considered why?
Apart from the employment statistics, commercial law states that when supply is low prices are high, amply providing traders with profit at the same time shunning the buyer. When supply is plentiful, prices are correspondingly low and this seems to me to benefit the prospective buyer.

Never mind what Mr Chapman and other sole traders say about erosion of business being a very bad thing. It would only be a bad thing for their profit margins. Tina Hanks has called for a survey of shopper opinion for Haverhill and has had reportedly more than 1,000 replies.

This is a terrible statistic as on page 21 of last week's Weekly News we discover that Haverhill's population has grown from 8,500 in 1967 to 23,400 now.

I expect the balance of around 10,000 actual shoppers are too busy spending their money in Cambridge, Bury St Edmunds, Braintree and Sudbury, where in all those locations, decent levels of choice are afforded, to bother. Competition is what Haverhill needs. Not lily-livered excuses about fragility, adverse impact on the town centre and drive-throughs adding to anti-social behavioural problems.

Planners' concerns about smell didn't stop the leisure complex and the business units already in situ which seem to do very well thank you.

That small corner of the town would benefit greatly from investment. Multi-national companies, such as Wickes, think so as do HPG who are prepared to offer a quarter of a million pounds toward town centre improvements. The Aussie Arms is Tributes: poppies on display at Haverhill's Remembrance Festival.

Fitting tribute to the Fallen

Sir, Through your letters page I would publicly like to thank David Hart for organising 'In Flanders Fields' – a most apt and skilfully performed concert to conclude the Haverhill Remembrance Festival events, held last week at the Arts Centre.

The audience packed the atmospheric hall, decorated with bunting made by Haverhill's primary schools, and were treated to an outstanding tribute in words and music on the theme of Remembrance.

The singers were the town's Choral Society, with musical director Jane Wright, and St Mary's Choir, with musical director Richard Hart.

now boarded up as is the carbuncle of Atterton and Ellis. I cannot believe that this should be left in such a state.
So I again call on councillors, businessmen and traders alike to support competition. It will re-invigorate the town and perhaps see us flourish into the community we deserve. We have made a start why not continue?
Cllr Robert Clifton-Brown deserves our support for his views on town improvement.

Well done to all at college

Sir, This is an open letter to the students, parents and staff of Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College.

I have been privileged to be the college's chairman of governors for more time than I care to remember. I have seen our college in bad times and in good.

In the last six years, I have watched as the college has transformed itself to the place of excellence it is today.

Two weeks ago, I listened as the Lead Inspector from Ofsted set out the enormous progress the college has made, as follows:

- Outstanding for overall effectiveness;
- Outstanding for capacity for

Readings, by members of the Centre Stage Company and Outspoken Theatre, of poems and letters written during the First World War, were cleverly interspersed with music and singing which evocatively set the scene of conflicts and struggles, by individuals and nations.

The final item was a very moving performance of For The Fallen, played by Samuel Ward College's Perfect Fourth String Quartet, with a fine solo violin rendition of The Last Post which brought a tear to many an eye in the audience. The richness of talents displayed during an excellent choice of programme was truly a fitting tribute to the Fallen and a credit to the town of Haverhill today.

sustained improvement;
■ Outstanding for student outcomes, both for individuals and groups;
■ Outstanding for the extent to which students feel safe;
■ Outstanding behaviour;
■ Outstanding student contribution to the college and the community;
■ Outstanding student development in spiritual, moral, social and cultural matters;
■ Outstanding curriculum;
■ Outstanding care, guidance and support;
■ Outstanding leadership and management; and
■ Outstanding value for money.

You will all understand how emotional those moments were, seeing the values, work and beliefs of so many people come together in such a spectacular way.

We now have two outstanding secondary schools in Haverhill – only 10% of schools nationally reach this standard.

The community should be proud of their achievements. My colleagues and I offer our heartfelt congratulations to the students who have achieved so much, to Madeleine Vigar and her staff who have helped them to do so and to the parents and carers who have supported the college through thick and thin. Well done to you all. We are so proud of you.

Missing: Bea, the northern goshawk, has been captive all her life and may not be able to feed herself. CP

Appeal over missing hawk

A FALCONER has appealed for help in tracing one of his birds which was either stolen or released from a pen in his garden.

Robert Brooks-Spicer is concerned that his northern goshawk, known as Bea or Esme, may not be able to survive in the wild.

Mr Brooks-Spicer, of Meeting Green, Wickhambrook, was alerted when his dogs started barking just before 1am on Saturday. He found that the padlock on her pen had been cut and the bird was missing.

The captive-bred goshawk is larger than wild goshawks found in Britain and is about the size of a buzzard.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Brooks-Spicer, 56, acquired the 14-year-old bird earlier this year for breeding purposes.

He said: "My main worry is not so much the loss of the bird. It's her welfare. She has been a captive bird for her whole life and may not be able to feed herself.

"If she is loose she will be within five or six miles of where I live and I can make sure she gets fed."

He said he was unsure whether the bird had been stolen or whether it had been deliberately released by someone thinking they were doing the bird a favour. She could also have escaped during an attempt to steal her.

In the wild, goshawks feed on partridges, pheasants and smaller birds as well as rabbits and hares.

Birds used for falconry can sell for around £500.

Mr Brooks-Spicer has been out looking for the bird but only spotted a much-smaller sparrowhawk.

Bea has a silver anodised ring on her right leg with an identifying number on it. He appealed for anyone who spots the bird to call him on 07976 504362.

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Andrew Green at Haverhill police (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

£2,000 grants waiting for bids

FUNDING totalling £26,000 is available for voluntary and community groups to bid for.

Grants of up to £2,000 per project are available for one-off capital costs such as equipment, furniture and building materials.

The cash is available from the West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership (WSLSP) Community Chest Capital Fund which is open to community groups as well as town and parish councils in the Newmarket, Mildenhall, Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds areas.

More than 30 local projects have already been helped this year.

They include the SOS bus in Newmarket, which is stationed in the High Street to help late-night revellers, and sailing training for young people.

Laura Compton, West Suffolk LSP manager, said: "I am delighted with the range of projects we have funded over the past year, many of which are already having a significant impact on the communities they are working in.

"Partnership is at the heart of everything the WSLSP does and has achieved to date in order to improve services and provision in the West Suffolk area."

All bids must benefit some or all of the residents of West Suffolk which covers St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Forest Heath District Council and west part of Babergh District Council.

Inspector rejects wind farm proposal

BY LEANNE EHREN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A RENEWABLE energy firm has been left with a legal bill expected to run into hundreds of thousands of pounds after plans for a wind farm were rejected.

Enertrag's bid to build a wind farm at Little Linton Farm, between Linton and Great Chesterford, has been turned down by a planning inspector.

Plans for the eight 125-metre high turbines were submitted to Uttlesford District Council (UDC) and South Cambridgeshire District Council (SCDC) last year.

UDC rejected one turbine on land it controls but SCDC failed to make adjudication on the other seven within the allocated time frame, forcing a planning inquiry.

A six-week inquiry, which was adjourned for a number of months, took place this year. Planning inspector Philip Major ruled against the wind farm last Thursday.

Phil Harrison, chairman of Stop Linton Wind Farm Action Group, which raised a £90,000 fighting fund through its 1,700 members, was delighted by the decision.

He said: "We thank the district councils for their forceful efforts to protect our communities against this development and for their willingness to co-operate effectively with the residents of the villages."

"This is a robust dismissal of a speculative exercise conducted by Enertrag in blatant breach of national guidance."

Mr Major said the wind farm would have harmed the landscape, various heritage assets, aviation interests and biodiversity.

He also granted full costs against Enertrag to the council so public money spent on the appeal will be reimbursed.

As previously reported in the Weekly News, a meeting of SCDC heard the battle was expected to cost the authority £75,000 in legal fees and the equivalent of £20,000 in officer time.

An UDC spokesman said: "At the moment it is not possible to say what this figure will be. However, it will run into the tens of thousands of pounds."

John Batchelor, county and district councillor for Linton, said: "It's great we won't have a wind farm dominating Linton but a shame it took nine months of appeal to arrive here."

"The reimbursement only covers the councils' legal costs so they won't recover every penny. The bad news is the people like Stop Linton Wind Farm who have spent huge amounts won't get any money at all."

Villages covered – from Romans to the internet!

TWO picturesque villages feature in a new hardback book.

The Thurlows, Great and Little Thurlow, are the subject of a 300-page book, describing the villages' history since Roman times.

It also include interviews with some of the villages' most interesting characters, including former Cambridge University Press managing director Jeremy Mynott.

The book is a collaborative efforts involving many residents and local historians.

Margaret Levin, one of the authors, said: "Several people went round interviewing people in the community to get a sense of what life has been like over the years."

"It is interesting how life has changed over the years, but also remained the same in many ways."

"For instance, people were wondering whether we would get electricity many years ago. Now people wonder if or when broadband will arrive."

Teens foiled in garage raid

YOUTHS ran off empty handed when they were disturbed after breaking into a garage where crates of soft drinks were stored.

The four youths, believed to be around 16 years old, were spotted after forcing wooden panels on the roof of the garaged in Gloucester Road, Haverhill, at around 4.15am last Thursday.

They are described as being of small to medium build and around 5ft 9in tall. They were wearing dark hooded tops and dark clothes. One was wearing black Adidas trainers with three red stripes on the side.

Anyone with information should call Pc Matthew Hammill at the Haverhill Response Team on (01284) 774100.

Crews tackle blazes in bins

FIREFIGHTERS extinguished a blaze in a bin.

They were called to Balmoral Drive in Haverhill shortly after 5.05pm last Thursday. They were also called out to a fire in a wheeler bin in Cambridge Close, Haverhill, at 7.10pm on Monday.

Officer goes for the double

A POLICE officer has been nominated for a top national award after winning a county award earlier this year.

Pc Will Wright (pictured right), from Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT), won the Suffolk police internal Martin Smith award for outstanding community policing in June.

Now he is Suffolk's representative on the shortlist for Community Police Officer of the Year at Jane's Police Review Gala Awards, which are due to be presented at London's Hilton hotel tonight.

His nomination said: "Pc Wright is extremely adaptable and flexible and has demonstrated again and again his ability to not only uphold the law but also to gain the confidence and trust of his community."

After working in the RAF for six and a half years, PC Wright joined Suffolk constabulary in 2005 as a response officer in Haverhill but quickly expressed an interest in community policing, which eventually led to his role in the Haverhill SNT.

Issues he has tackled in the town include parking and congestion complaints around local schools which led him to encourage more children to cycle.

He has also been part of three successful crack house closures in Haverhill, obtaining valuable community intelligence contributing to the safety and well being of local residents, particularly in Willow Close.

When he received the Suffolk award earlier this year, Pc Wright said: "Effective policing can rely on who you know in the area, and how good your relationship is with the community as a whole. This can be a tremendous benefit when it comes to operations and working with the response teams to tackle crime, but it really begins with getting out and about, getting to know the people who run local organisations and businesses, involving yourself with the activities of local schools and making yourself available to people."

BUSINESS and council chiefs will be looking at a town's future at a free event.

Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and St Edmundsbury Borough Council are organising the Hard-working Haverhill event.

Pharmaceutical company Genzyme will play host on Tuesday, November 16, at 6pm.

Guest speakers include: Paul Logue, general manager of Genzyme; Martin Garratt, director of the Greater Cambridge Partnership; and Dr Dorian Hindmarsh, business development manager for Hethel Engineering in Haverhill.

Geoff Rivers, chief executive of the borough council, will set out the council's plans for the next 12 months and invite views from businesses at the event, which will also include the council's annual business ratepayers' consultation meeting.

He said: "We are delighted to be working with Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and Genzyme in organising this event."

"It's a great chance for us to find out what Haverhill businesses really want and discuss how we can work together to make Haverhill an even better place for business."

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Sarah Howard, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "This is a unique opportunity for businesses in the town – small and large – to ask questions of the chief executive of the borough council about issues that directly affect them."

"We would urge businesses in the town to send a representative and make sure that their views on any business issues are known."

The event also offers a chance for businesses to come along and find out more about the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and network with other business people.

Entry is free, but places must be booked in advance by contacting the council's economic development services on (01284) 757683 or economic.development@stedsbc.gov.uk

Riders test skills at fundraiser

BIKE fans gave more than £500 to be shared between a hospice and an air ambulance when a motorcycle shop held an open day.

Suffolk police motorcycle officers were at GAS Motorcycles in Boundary Road, Haverhill, when the special event was held on Saturday.

Donations were collected in aid of St Nicholas Hospice in Bury St Edmunds and the Essex Air Ambulance Service.

The Extreme Wheelie Machine outfit was also present with their Honda Fireblade 'wheelie' bike set-up which allows riders to test their skills in safety.

Malcolm Grice, who owns GAS Motorcycles, was on hand with his wife Tracey to show the facilities to visiting bikers.

Bright sparks get electricity lessons

PRIMARY school pupils in Haverhill will be given lessons about the dangers of electricity.

Representatives from UK Power Networks will be visiting schools across Suffolk to stage workshops on the dangers of playing near electrical installations such as sub-stations and power lines.

Sonya Keating, UK Power Networks education adviser, said:

"These workshops ensure that the children understand the potential consequences of fooling with electricity.

"The children really benefit from the visits and learn valuable safety lessons which will last them a lifetime."

One of the workshops will be at New Cangle Primary School in Haverhill on November 10.

UK Power Networks has a dedicated website to teach children about electricity and the potential dangers. The newly upgraded Power Up website, www.ukpowernetworks.co.uk/powerup, is aimed at students aged 5 to 14 and also provides information and useful resources for teachers and parents in line with the national curriculum.

Last week's Memories picture, from our archives, showed a group of walkers being led by a dog. The photograph was taken in June, 1987 and featured a sponsored walk organised by Haverhill Sunday School.

Meanwhile, reader Mrs Basham got in touch with the Weekly News to update our archives! The picture right was published on October 21, and our archives report that these children were pupils at Haverhill Gangle School.

However, Mrs Basham says the pupils are from Haverhill Place Farm School. The boy at the front is Jeremy Goddard and the 4th child back is her daughter Rebecca Basham, now Dial.

Stay in shape over Christmas

STAY as trim as your tree this Christmas. Here's how to whittle down that waist and keep those extra calories at bay.

ADVERTISING FEATURE

CLEAN UP YOUR ACT
Use a festive blitz on your home as a way to burn lots of calories.
■ Hoovering for an hour can burn 194 calories. Lunge while you Hoover and mop to tone up your legs and bum. Even a little light dusting will take off 174 calories.
■ Mopping is great way to keep fit, burning 194 calories an hour, and ironing will shave off a further 113 calories.
■ While you're tidying up, put the remote somewhere hard to reach and keep it there, so you'll have to get up off the sofa to change the channel over Christmas.

SHOP YOUR WAY INTO SHAPE
Think of Christmas shopping as a way to lose physical pounds, as well as paper ones, and the challenge becomes slightly more rewarding.
■ At a moderate walking pace you can burn around 287 calories – and that's without counting the workout you'll give your arms as you haul those bags up and down the high street.

■ Don't be tempted to take any shortcuts while on the move. Avoid the lifts and walk up and down the escalators remembering that every calorie counts.
■ Walk tall, with your shoulders back, abdomen tight and buttocks clenched.

TRIM AS THE TREE
Definitely one of the most enjoyable activities of the festive season, decorating your tree is a great time to start your Christmas workout.

■ Just 30 minutes of climbing stairs or ladders amounts to around 294 calories burned.

■ Go for the stretch when dangling those lights, tinsel and baubles to tone your back and upper arm muscles.

■ Make life difficult for yourself and instead of having someone pass the decorations up to you, keep climbing up and down the ladder to hang those baubles.

SOME delicious, festive recipes to keep your family around the table and away from the TV.

Perfect Roast Potatoes

You will need floury potatoes, such as Cara or King Edward cut fairly small, and sunflower oil.

1. Lightly salt some gently boiling water, and par-boil the potatoes for about eight minutes.
2. After leaving to cool completely, scratch them with a fork and sprinkle with a little fine salt.

3. You can roast around a joint of meat, provided there is at least half a centimetre of fat in the tin.

Alternatively, preheat oil in a separate pan with fat from the roast, only adding the spuds when the oil is sizzling hot. Turn the potatoes as soon as they go into the pan, giving them a light coating of oil from the start.

4. Roast for the last 45 minutes of your joint's cooking time, turning at least once. If they look like they could use a bit more browning/crisping, leave them in after the joint has come out to rest.
5. Drain well of excess oil, and keep in a warm oven, uncovered and not too piled up. Season again with salt and

Troubled teenager finds hope at village youth club

A lot of people look at me and make a judgment: if you're a teenager, they automatically assume you're out to make trouble," says Bobbie Martin. "But they have no right to judge. They don't know anything about me or my life, do they? They can't see the person I really am."

With her funky clothes, curled hair and expertly applied make-up, Bobbie may look much like any other teenage girl. In fact, she's far from ordinary.

Abandoned by her dad at birth, she was in care at 4, diagnosed with depression aged 10 and by the age of 16 was a school drop-out with a criminal record – including a conviction for GBH.

Yet – thanks largely to her own strength of character – 18-year-old Bobbie has now turned her life around. Determined to build herself a brighter future, she has started studying again. And, keen to help other troubled teens, she does voluntary youth work in her spare time.

"I used to feel like I was in a deep, dark hole," explains Bobbie. "I was always trying to find the light switch but, every time I thought I'd found it, it would disappear again... Now I've finally found the switch – and the lights are on."

Born in Leeds, Bobbie describes her early years as 'very complicated'. "I didn't exactly have a loving home. My dad left when I was a baby. And my mum had a lot of problems."

Put into care at the age of 4, Bobbie says she can still remember social workers arriving at the house to take her away.

"They picked me up, kicking and screaming, and put me into a car... I went to a house where there were a lot of other kids, all waiting to find foster carers. All that's a bit of a blur now; I was so little when it happened."

"But I can remember feeling really confused: I hadn't got a clue what was going on."

Bobbie spent the next two years being shunted from one foster home to another. And then, when she was 6, her dad made a brief reappearance in her life. "He was engaged to a lady who was a foster carer," explains Bobbie, from Waterbeach.

"They found me and I moved in, but six weeks later he was gone again.

His partner fought to keep me and I ended up living with her on and off until I was 16; we still see each other now. She's almost the only person in my life who's been there for me: she's like a second mum."

Describing her relationship with her own mum as 'not strong', Bobbie was formally diagnosed with depression at the age of 10. "My foster carer said I was acting really weird, so she took me to the doctor. I was referred to the hospital to see a counsellor and, eight weeks later, was diagnosed with depression."

"At the time I didn't understand what that meant: I thought it meant that I wasn't normal."

Although Bobbie says her primary school days were very happy, by the time she reached secondary school she says every day felt like a battle. "I ended up getting excluded," she admits. "I didn't do what I was told, I played truant, I got into fights... I didn't like anything or anyone. By the time I got to GCSEs I'd had enough, so I just dropped out."

One of six children – she has two brothers and three sisters – Bobbie says she was dealing with a lot of family problems at the time.

"I stayed in trouble for quite a while," she continues. "I got in trouble with the police for fighting and criminal damage, that kind of thing. Looking back now, I really wish I'd never done it."

A real low came when, aged 16, Bobbie got into an argument with another girl; she wound up on a GBH charge and the girl ended up in hospital. "I used to get so angry I'd actually blank out," says Bobbie. "I didn't know what I was doing. It really frightened me, to be honest."

Sentenced to a two-year supervision order, Bobbie says that was a real turning point. By then she had become a regular at Waterbeach youth club, provided by the local charity WAY (Waterbeach and Landbeach Action for Youth).

Bobbie started visiting Waterbeach when she was 14, to stay with family in the area, and moved to the village aged 16. "I first went to youth club with my little sister," she recounts. "It was really nice. Everyone was welcoming and kind. And I didn't feel like anyone was judging me there: I could really be myself."

"Up until then I wasn't great at making friends: I didn't even speak to people. But everyone took the time to get to know me and I've been friends with every single one of them since. That boosted my confidence a lot.

"It gives you a real warmth in your heart. It's like one big family."

Bobbie pays particular tribute to youth worker Dave Beasley.

"He treated me with kindness and respect. He was friendly and I felt like I could talk to him about anything, without him judging me: he even came to court to support me.

"And he was always telling me that things would get better, that I could have a good future... Turns out he was right."

Dave asked Bobbie if she would be interested in doing some voluntary youth work herself. "It was great. I took all my make-up down to the club and gave all the girls their own little consultation, showing them how to do their hair and make-up. And I also talked to them: they started telling me what they were worried about.

"Because of my experiences, I was able to give them advice - like: 'Don't drop out of school, otherwise you'll end up like me.'"

Bobbie says going to youth club changed the course of her whole life, giving her a sense of both self-worth and perspective.

"If it wasn't for youth club, I can honestly say I wouldn't be the person I am today," she says. "I would still be the person I used to be: unhappy and getting into trouble all the time."

Bobbie, who recently restarted GCSE courses in maths, English and science, now wants to pursue a career in youth work. "I want to work with kids who have got problems with depression or anger, kids who have been in foster care. I can really understand what they're going through, which means I can really help."

Although Bobbie is still being treated for depression, she says she feels genuinely positive about life now.

"The past is in the past; what I've got to do is look to the future. And I'm really looking forward to what my life will bring."

Project which leads the WAY

SINCE the WAY (Waterbeach and Landbeach Action for Youth) project was registered as a charity in 2002 it has established itself as one of the leading providers of youth services in the region.

The principal focus of activity is the youth club. Open to ages 11 to 18, it runs on three evenings a week during school term time and has a total membership of 270 (of which up to 60 attend each session).

In addition, the charity provides social support for individuals and families in the villages: drop-in sessions twice a week, clubs during school holiday times and one-on-one support.

The opening of the new Tillage Hall youth and community building in Waterbeach in 2011 will give WAY the opportunity to secure facilities for both the youth club and other support services for the long-term.

The WAY project needs more than £40,000 per year and securing this money continues to be a real challenge for the charity; funding streams are being reduced and securing the money is becoming more and more difficult.

For more information about the work of the WAY project or details of how to support it contact Suzy Kay on (01223) 502620 or email suzy.kay@btinternet.com

Breakthrough in the search for cold cure

A CURE for the common cold and other viruses could be developed thanks to groundbreaking research at a Cambridge laboratory.

Scientists at the world-famous Laboratory of Molecular Biology, based at Addenbrooke's, have discovered that antibodies can fight viruses, such as the common cold and gastroenteritis, from within infected cells.

The discovery of this previously unknown mechanism means treatments could be created to supercharge people's immune system, helping them to fight off viruses when they strike.

Scientists believe a nasal spray or inhaler could be ready to treat illnesses, such as the winter vomiting virus, gastroenteritis and the common cold, within three or four years – but warn it could take longer to make the leap from the laboratory to human treatments.

It was previously believed antibodies could only reduce infection by attacking viruses outside cells – once the infection was inside the cell the only defence was thought to be the destruction of the whole cell.

Dr Leo James, the molecular

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

virologist who led the study, said: "Once infected we thought the only option for the body was to kill the entire cell.

"What we have discovered is that is not quite true. There is a protein which detects the virus by attaching to the antibody – once attached the infection is pulled into the cell's own disposal system.

"What is exciting is it's not every day you find something that is new and not known about before."

This knowledge transforms scientific understanding of our immunity to viral diseases and may pave the way to a new type of antiviral drugs.

Dr James, added: "Doctors have plenty of antibiotics to fight bacterial infections, but few antiviral drugs.

"Although these are early days, and we don't yet know the range of viruses that are cleared by this mechanism, we are excited that our discoveries may open multiple avenues for developing new antiviral drugs."

Scientists at the Medical Research Council (MRC) laboratory – known as the 'Nobel factory' for its numerous winners – demonstrated that antibodies remain attached when viruses enter healthy cells.

Dr Leo James

Once inside, the antibodies trigger a response, led by a protein called TRIM21, which pulls the virus into a disposal system used by the cell to get rid of unwanted material.

This process happens quickly, before the virus has a chance to harm the cell. The MRC scientists have further shown that increasing the amount of TRIM21 protein in cells makes this process even more effective, suggesting new ways of making better antiviral drugs.

Dr James added: "We could also supercharge the antibodies by attaching the protein to them so it can be delivered in one shot."

Antibodies pioneer Sir Greg

Winter, the laboratory's deputy director, said: "Antibodies are formidable molecular war machines – it now appears that they can continue to attack viruses within cells.

"This research is not only a leap in our understanding of how and where antibodies work, but more generally in our understanding of immunity and infection."

Leaps in antibody medicines mean the treatments could be cheap and easily available, but the system will take years of research before it makes the leap from working in the laboratory to healing humans. It could be well over a decade before humans are taking the drugs to stop the sniffles for good.

Smooth and sweet Stylistics

Along with the Spinners and the O'Jays, the Stylistics are among the leading soul groups to emerge from Philadelphia. During the early 1970s, the band had 12 straight Top Ten hits, including You Are Everything, Betcha by Golly, Wow, I'm Stone in Love With You, Break Up to Make Up, and You Make Me Feel Brand New. Of all their peers, the Stylistics were one of the smoothest and sweetest soul

Leading Philadelphia soul group smooch in with their greatest hits

groups of their era. All of their hits were ballads, graced by the soaring falsetto of Russell Thompkins, Jr, and the lush yet graceful productions of Thom Bell, which helped make the Stylistics one of the most successful soul groups of the first half of the 70s.

The Stylistics formed in 1968, when members of the Philadelphia soul groups the Monarchs and the Percussions joined forces after their respective band dissolved. Thompkins, James Smith, and Airrion Love hailed from the Monarchs; James Dunn and Herbie Murrell were from the Percussions.

In 1970, the group recorded You're a Big Girl Now, a song their road manager Marty Bryant co-wrote with Robert Douglas, a member of their backing band Slim and the Boys, and the single became a regional hit for Sebring Records. The larger Avco Records soon signed the Stylistics, and the single eventually climbed to number seven in early 1971.

Once they were on Avco, the Stylistics began working with producer/songwriter Thom Bell, who had previously worked with the Delfonics. The Stylistics became Bell's pet project and with lyricist Linda Creed, he crafted a series of hit singles that relied as much on the intricately arranged and lush production as they did on Thompkins' falsetto. Every single that Bell produced for the Stylistics was a Top Ten RB hit, and several were also Top Ten pop hits.

Following You Make Me Feel Brand New in the spring of 1974, the Stylistics broke away from Bell and began working with Van McCoy, who helped move the group towards a softer, easy listening style. In 1976, they left Avco and signed with HL. The group's American record sales declined, yet they remained popular in Europe, particularly in Great Britain, where Sing Baby Sing (1975), Na Na Is the Saddest Word (1975), Can't Give You Anything (1975), and Can't Help Falling in Love (1976) were all Top Five hits.

The Stylistics have continued to tour successfully with their greatest hits.

Wizard guitarist from Oz has unique style

Songs for our heroes

TWO-TIME Grammy nominee Tommy Emmanuel, one of Australia's most respected musicians, is visiting Cambridge next week.

The legendary guitarist has a professional career that spans almost five decades and continues to intersect with some of the finest musicians throughout the world.

A household name in his native Australia, Tommy has won hundreds of thousands of loyal fans worldwide. His unique style – he calls it simply “finger style” – is akin to playing guitar the way a pianist plays piano, using all 10 fingers. Rather than using a whole band for melody, rhythm, bass, and drum parts, Tommy plays all that – and more – on one guitar. Guitar legend Chet Atkins was one of the first to inspire Emmanuel to try this “fingerpicker” style as a child. Decades later, Atkins himself became one of Emmanuel's biggest fans.

Tommy's unusual talent and life are common lore in Australia. Born into a musical family, Tommy and his older brother Phil were considered child prodigies. Tommy got his first guitar aged four and was taught by his mother. He learned by ear, with no formal instruction, and has never read music. By the age of six he was already working as a professional musician in the family band, variously named The Emmanuel Quartet, The Midget Surfaries and The Trailblazers.

Tommy played rhythm guitar and his older brother Phil played lead, along with their brother Chris on drums and sister Virginia on slide guitar. The Emmanuel siblings earned the family's sole income for several years. Tommy said: “I've spent all my life from the age of four playing music and entertaining people. I never wanted to do anything else.” By the age of 10, he had played his way across Australia.

In 1962, Tommy heard Nashville guitarist Chet Atkins' music for the first time and was riveted by the complexity of the solo sound and spent hours figuring out the “fingerpicking” style. Leaving school and home in his early teens, Tommy pursued his career as a professional guitarist. By the 70's, he was playing in clubs all over the city and soon found himself in high demand as a session player and sideman and became known as one of the best modern guitarists in Australia.

Emmanuel got his solo instrumental career off the ground with the release of the gentle and textural Up from Down Under album in 1988.

■ Tommy Emmanuel will be performing at the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Tuesday at 7.30pm. Tickets £17.50, by calling (01223) 357851 or visit www.cornex.co.uk

GUITAR GREAT: Tommy Emmanuel, one of Australia's most respected musicians.

THE ‘People's Tenor’, John Craig Innes, is to perform in Cambridge in aid of Help For Heroes, his chosen charity for 2010. A former member of the Royal Scots Guards Military Band, John will be joined onstage by the Band of The Parachute Regiment, making one of their final public appearances before deployment in Afghanistan.

John will pay tribute to his tenor favourites – Lanza, Pavarotti and Caruso – with songs such as Nessun Dorma, Time To Say Goodbye and E Lucevan le Stelle. His performance will also feature a military flavour with stirring anthems such as Requiem for a Soldier, You Raise Me Up and I Am My Country. Guests on the night will be soprano Michelle Crozier and John's ‘big band’ vocalists brother, Moray Innes. John appears at Cambridge Corn Exchange on Sunday at 7.30pm. Tickets from £18.50, students £10 Students £10. Call 01223 357851 or visit www.cornex.co.uk

The big film

THE KIDS ARE ALL RIGHT certificate 15 106m

THE Oscars may be the glitziest and most glamorous date in the film industry calendar but as history attests, the golden statuettes rarely go to the most deserving.

Kirk Douglas, Greta Garbo, Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr, Peter O'Toole and Barbara Stanwyck may have collected honorary awards for their invaluable contribution to world cinema but they were all repeatedly snubbed despite their dazzling performances.

With seven nominations and not a single win between them, Annette Bening and Julianne Moore join that illustrious list as two of Hollywood's greatest and shamefully unrewarded actresses.

They are utterly fearless, willing to emotionally expose themselves to an audience to expose the human frailties of their characters.

Both should expect further nominations for their scintillating performances in Lisa Cholodenko's touching comedy, an emotionally raw portrait of a family in crisis that doesn't ever become gloomy.

Control freak doctor Nic (Bening) and her long-term partner Jules (Moore) have each raised a child, Joni (Mia Wasikowska) and Laser (Josh Hutcherson), using sperm from the same anonymous donor.

The family unit is secure and happy, and the two women lavish love upon their well-adjusted teen offspring.

“Come give us hugs,” coos Jules, beckoning Laser to the sofa before he heads out for the evening.

“Hug her. It's what she's there for,” he responds truculently pointing to Nic, having reached that difficult age when public displays of affection are unacceptable. When Joni and Laser decide to secretly track down their biological father, they bring organic restaurant owner Paul (Mark Ruffalo) into their happy home.

Paul is a slacker, who rides a motorcycle – a definite no-no for Nic – and is sleeping with one of his waitresses (Yaya DaCosta).

Unexpected sexual tension between Jules and Paul threatens everything the two women have worked so hard to build.

Co-written by Stuart Blumberg, The Kids Are All Right is blessed with a razor sharp script littered with stinging one-liners, and a heartbreaking confession scene when the entire family attempts to bridge divisions.

Volcano of colour from delicate acer

There are few trees that display the spectacular hues of autumn more vividly than the acer, with its delicate, finely cut foliage which provides a volcano of colour, from warm yellows and burnt oranges to fiery reds and deep burgundies.

Every garden, no matter how large or small, should find space for trees – and there are few to top the acer for elegance, says top garden designer Andrew McIndoe, of Hillier Nurseries, recently crowned International Grower of the Year.

"Gardeners tend to concentrate on the little herbaceous beauties, but it is the trees that give the structure, height and year-round interest to a planting scheme," says McIndoe, who designed 20 of Hillier's 65 consecutive gold medal-winning gardens at Chelsea Flower Show.

The supreme elegance, magnificent colour and sheer volume of varieties make the acer a good choice of tree, whatever the size of your garden, he says.

They will grow happily on acid

by Hannah Stephenson

or alkaline soils, need sun for good foliage colour but should be kept clear of biting winds, which will burn their delicate foliage, or drought, which will cause their leaves to go brown at the tips.

Japanese maples, varieties of Acer palmatum, are ideal for smaller gardens.

"Strong growing varieties such as Acer palmatum 'Bloodgood', with purple-red foliage, are the best to choose where a red-leaved tree of around 3-4m is required," McIndoe recommends.

Japanese maples are also excellent for growing in the gentle shade of larger trees provided the earth in which they are planted is not awash with the roots of the larger specimen.

While some acers provide colour in spring and summer, if you want them to become a focal point in autumn look no further than Acer palmatum 'Ozakazuki', which turns from green to vivid scarlet.

"Plant it where the leaves will be back-lit by the sun in morning or late afternoon for best effect," says McIndoe.

The coral bark maple, A. palmatum 'Sango-kaku', is renowned for its orange-red young stems which glow in winter light after the butter yellow autumn leaves have fallen.

"This is a good choice for a smaller garden because it has upwardly sweeping branches as a young tree," he adds. Plant it with the sapphire blue-flowered dwarf shrub Cerastostigma willmottianum for a striking combination.

Acers can also be grown in containers to provide a splash of colour and architectural pizzazz on a patio. Plant them in large pots of John Innes loam-based compost for the best results, or a compost comprising equal parts John Innes No 2 and a soil-less multi-purpose compost, which will hang on to water and nutrients more effectively.

If you want a taller tree and are prepared to be patient while it establishes itself, a good choice is the paper-bark maple, Acer griseum, McIndoe recommends.

"This has beautiful mahogany peeling bark and small three-lobed leaves of deep green which colour richly in autumn. The bark is spectacular in winter when caught by low winter sun. Plant it where the bare stems can be seen."

Other good choices for autumn include the snake bark maples including Acer davidii 'George Forrest', with its red-stalked leaves, and the native field maple A. campestre, which has a broad, bushy habit and small green leaves which turn butter-yellow in autumn.

McIndoe concludes: "Autumn and early winter are the ideal times to plant a new tree in your garden. Make sure you give it the best start by digging a hole much larger than the roots, prepare the soil well and break up the ground in the bottom of the hole, adding shrub and tree planting compost and slow-release fertiliser to the soil before you back-fill."

BEST OF THE BUNCH – Euonymus

You may have to stifle a yawn at the thought of buying another little evergreen euonymus, probably E. fortunei, for your winter pots or hanging baskets, but don't knock it as it will often brighten up a spot in winter where nothing else will grow. These evergreen types and particularly the variegated varieties are probably the best of all ground covers in winter borders and under trees. They will grow in virtually any soil in both sun and partial shade, are easy to keep in check and can look pretty impressive against a shady wall. There are some which can be used as climbers, clinging to the wall like ivy, such as the white-edged 'Silver Queen'. But if you want a true splash of autumn colour go for the deciduous spindle bush, Euonymus alatus, which grows to 2m (6ft) high and 2m (6ft) wide and produces a spectacular display of molten-crimson leaves and later reveals unusual corky flanges.

The Citroen C5: More style and full Euro 5 compliance

Citroen gives C5 a boost

SUBTLE changes to the exterior of Citroen's C5 give the range more style, while the inside updates include the option of the firm's innovative new eTouch emergency and assistance system. The upgrades apply to both C5 saloon and tourer versions, and go on sale next week.

The Citroen C5 range now benefits from a full Euro 5 compliant engine line-up with the introduction of the 1.6HDI 110hp Euro 5 to replace the Euro 4 version. The 1.6i THP 155hp petrol engine – available in Saloon form with VTR+ NAV trim – and the 3.0HDI V6 240hp Auto Exclusive (Saloon and Tourer) have been re-homologated and now offer improved fuel efficiency and lower CO2 emissions. Combined cycle fuel economy increases from 39.8mpg to 42.2mpg and 38.2mpg to 39.2mpg respectively. CO2 emissions are also down 14g/km and 6g/km respectively, resulting in reduced BIK tax rates for both models (down 3 bands for the THP 155 and down 2 bands for the HDi V6). The first year VED for the THP 155 model changes from band H to band G.

Prices start at £19,195 for the 1.6 HDi.

Drivers 'spend a year of their lives looking for a space to park in'

DRIVERS spend nearly a year of their lives searching for a parking space, according to a poll.

The average motorist loses the equivalent of more than six days a year circling streets and car parks looking for a spot, the poll of 9,000 drivers found.

Based on a motorist's driving "life" lasting around 50 years, the lost time adds up to 7,600 hours, or more than 45 weeks, the poll by parking company NCP found.

Londoners lose the most time, spending an average of 182 hours a year, or more than 54 weeks in a motoring lifetime, in the search of a space. This compares with the national average of 152 hours a year.

The next-longest lost time is endured by motorists in Birmingham, followed by Glasgow and Newcastle.

The survey also showed:

■ 42 per cent of people – and 51 per cent of women – admit they will not attempt to park in a space if another car is waiting behind them;

■ 23 per cent often get a passenger to do the parking for them;

■ 44 per cent of people, and 48 per cent of women, have "lost" their car as they could not remember where they parked, with Birmingham motorists the most forgetful;

■ 50 per cent have gone to the wrong floor or section of the car park to look for their vehicle, while 39 per cent of those have even attempted to get into someone else's car, mistaking it for their own.

NCP car parks chief operating officer Jo Cooper said: "Parking should be simple, but in reality it is a stressful experience for most of us.

"There's often a lot of pressure on us from other passengers, people waiting behind you, and then there's the added time pressure too.

"It's bad enough we're spending so much time sitting in traffic jams, commuting on busy motorways or taking the children to school. Parking should be the easiest part."

The Skoda Yeti: Success story.

Skoda enjoys best ever year

SKODA delivered a record 568,990 vehicles to customers in the first nine months of 2010, helping the company to significantly increase its turnover (up 16.3 per cent to £5.6 billion) and operating profit, which increased by 64.4 per cent to £280 million, when compared with the same period last year.

"The positive financial figures for the first nine months of 2010 are the result of our sustained and profitable growth strategy," said Prof Dr Winfried Vahland, chairman of the board of Škoda Auto a.s. "We have never sold more cars in the first nine months of a year than we have done in 2010. We will continue on this path and, in doing so, we want to expand considerably in global growth markets such as Russia, India, and China, while at the same time strengthening our position in Europe."

In the UK, Škoda is on course to record its most successful year ever with sales of 33,100 vehicles in the first nine months of 2010, up 23 per cent when compared with the same period last year.

VOLVO has made a commitment to taking the next step towards next-generation electric car technology.

Backed by research support from the Swedish Energy Agency, the company is initiating development of a fuel cell that can extend the electric car's operating range without any carbon dioxide emissions.

The aim is to have two prototype chassis based on the Volvo C30 Drive Electric ready for testing in everyday traffic in 2012.

"This is an exciting expansion of our focus on electrification. Battery cost and size means that all-electric cars still have a relatively limited operating range."

"Fuel cells may be one way of extending the distance these cars can cover before they need to be recharged. What is more, the project gives us increased knowledge about fuel cells and hydrogen gas," says Volvo Cars president and CEO Stefan

Jacoby.

The technology generates electricity completely without any emissions of carbon oxide (CO), nitrogen oxides (NOx), sulphur oxides (SOx) and particles.

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

WEST Wrattling completed a memorable week with a thumping victory to make it three league wins on the bounce with 14 goals scored and just one conceded.

Just a few days after attending a five-team tournament at Norwich City's training ground at Colney, Wrattling, fuelled by a man-of-the-match performance from Cameron Biggs and a hat-trick from Tom Pinker, made a lightning start and never looked back.

The prolific Pinker opened the scoring in the first minute, and was brought down to give James Percy the chance to stretch the lead from the penalty spot before half time.

Five minutes after the break Percy and Pinker combined to set up Biggs, whose booming 25-yarder made it 3-0. Although Ramsey pulled a goal back, two goals in as many minutes from Pinker – one a rasping long-range free kick – took him to 22 goals in 12 games and gave Wrattling the points.

TheSafebox.co.uk-sponsored Reds competed against the high-flying Gorleston and Lowestoft teams – first and second in the Norfolk and Suffolk Youth League, Division One – Norfolk Youth Combination leaders Taverham and a Pro Route Football Academy representative side from East London at Norwich.

Sixteen of their 18-man squad featured in the games, which were watched by officials from the npower Football League Championship side.

And the lasting highlights of a memorable day were Pinker's towering header from a pin-point Biggs corner against Gorleston and Percy's impressive finish from Matt Burley's defence-splitting pass against Taverham.

Insult added to injury as sad Haverhill crash

Stowmarket 104

Haverhill 6

Greene King IPA Eastern Counties, Division One
HAVERHILL endured a day to forget at Stowmarket. They only had 16 players available, and were dealt a blow when second-row Ben Jones was injured and had to go off.

After conceding two early tries, Kieron Ewens booted a penalty to reduce the arrears to 12-3 after 18 minutes, but by half time, despite another Ewens penalty, they trailed 40-6.

Their cause was not helped in the second half when prop Ben Jackson was sin-binned, and Stowmarket ran riot.

Rovers mourn one that got away

Haverhill Rov 1

Ridgeons League, Premier Division
STUART Kingham spurned a golden opportunity to rescue a point for Haverhill against lowly Debenham.
The visitors, who were bottom of the league at the beginning of the afternoon, went ahead midway through the first half when Matt Morrison's fumble was pounced on. Haverhill switched to a back three in the second half and it paid dividends when Marcus Hunt netted from Louis Harper's free kick with nine minutes left.
But, after Matt Clarke had penalty appeals turned down, Debenham scored on the counter-attack and Kingham missed a sitter at the death.
Rovers have a league double-header at the New Croft this week.
They face Dereham at home on Saturday and then host CRC on Tuesday.

Wratting hang on after Green walks

WEST Wratting shrugged off the loss of Sam Green to win 2-1 at Newmarket reserves in the Kershaw League, Premier Division
Green was sent off for two bookable offences, but by that time Wratting were 2-1 ahead thanks to Tom Day's penalty and David Pearson's goal which negated Darren O'Leary's fourth-minute goal.
"The sending-off changed it and there were a lot of balls coming into our box, but we defended well and we deserved the win," said West Wratting manager Craig Fleming.
However, Hundon got words of consolation from Whittleford's joint-manager Peter Carter after the bottom-of-the-table side were crushed 6-1.
Matt Glass struck four times on only his second appearance for Whittleford and Carter said: "I feel a bit sorry for Hundon. They've got the nucleus of a good side. If they get some players in from the lower leagues then they could get out of it."
"We're on the crest of a wave at the moment, but you never like to see clubs struggle and I wish them good luck."

Still chasing: Gary Paffett (above and in action, main picture) finished second at Adria in Italy, but admits he is the outsider of the three drivers with DTM title aspirations going into the final round in Shanghai.

Paffett's bid still on track

GARY Paffett took a solid second place in Sunday's DTM race at Adria, Italy to ensure there is a three-way battle for the title going into the final race in Shanghai later this month.

However, the Haverhill-based driver, who won the championship in 2005, knows he is the outsider of the three with current leader Bruno Spengler and Paul Di Resta ahead on points.

"I came into this race with the goal of getting as many championship points as possible in order to keep my title hopes alive," said Paffett, who drives for the SalzGitter Mercedes-Benz AMG team.

"While a win would, of course, have been better, I'm still pleased with second place as it means that, mathematically, I can still win the 2010 championship although it does depend where Bruno and Paul finish.

"With 57 points compared to Paul's 63 and Bruno's 66 I'm certainly the outsider, but I'll be giving it all I can to win both the race (on November 28) and the title."

Paffett, who is also the test and reserve driver for the Vodafone McLaren Mercedes Formula One team, started from pole position, which he snatched by 0.010sec from team-mate Spengler.

Spengler, though, made a better start and there was little to choose between the two in the damp conditions until the race was halted on the second lap when Alexandre Premat's crash meant the race was red-flagged.

Once the debris had been cleared and the race re-started, Paffett could find no way past Spengler, despite posting faster times.

However, on lap 20, Paffett was sent spinning when he locked his brakes in his desperation to get past and he lost a place to Audi's Timo Scheider, although he retained third place after a pit stop two laps later.

Scheider managed to get past Spengler to lead, something that Paffett could not do until his second pit stop on lap 32 when he managed to leapfrog the Canadian into second place.

Paffett spent the next six laps chasing Scheider but the tricky wet track conditions meant he could not make much of an impression.
